

Harmony of Chaos

By Meredith Burgess

Whispers from an ancient time
Statues full of tricks and lies
Mischievous comes back from the grave
And solace shatters right before me
I felt mayhem in the dark
Lost my friends to battle scars
Like cancer waiting for us
Growing til we can't control it

Fear me
We can't let this be the end for us
Hate me
We will take away the throne
Feel me
Clear the voices and visions
We will rise up

This is a battle for the peace within our hearts
These twisted omens wait until we break apart
I feel these elements illuminate my soul
We stand together as the chaos will unfold
Many years I spent alone
Children laughing through the stone
But you never expect

I would be your great undoing
I will bring you war and pain
Watch you waste out in the rain
If you take a moment
You will see your world is gone

Break your spirits and leave
No one ever loved me
But why would you care
When you weren't there
To know about true harmony
Break our spirits and leave
No one ever could see
But why would we care
When we weren't there
To know about true harmony

This is a battle for the peace within our hearts
These twisted omens wait until we break apart
I feel these elements illuminate my soul
We stand together as the chaos will unfold
We carry burdens that will try to weigh us down
 But we won't falter we are taking back the crown
 I feel these elements illuminate my soul
 We stand together as the chaos will unfold

Clear the voices and the visions
Chaos is my only way
