

Scorched Earth

By Mason, Ben, and Anthony

Climate change, a universal problem

While we will say to help, will they truly help

We hear of the heating of the world

Everyday items can destroy

Some will protest, riot, and rebel

We release a foul smog in the air

As the ozone disintegrates, we're running out of time

Some will try to help

But, in the end, it will always be useless

We can't reverse our damage

We see the ice caps getting smaller plunging into the depths

We are the creators of this madness

We were the ones that started this

And we are the ones that need to stop this

We need to help

Before it's too late

Before it ends

We don't have much time

With only one chance

One life

We need to do this

Or Die Trying
