

The Night Sky

by Christian A. Gonzalez Perez

As the day went away
and the night came at bay.
As our shining sun leaves our sky retrieving to its home
a great white sphere
came out of its dome.

The sky grew darker,
but the light still roamed.
 little by little,
the stars had bloomed.
then once more our sky
had its dazzling glow.

Oh what a sight for soar eyes.
There's no better blessing,
 than our night sky.
 Oh little moon,
Such an adorable traveler
Without you the world is darker

Please don't hide,
We need your light
to guide our paths.
