In this life everyone is unlike
People can look, be, and seem different

A few people may have green eyes
A few people may have brown eyes
Some people can be quiet
Some people can be loud
Some people may speak a various amount of languages

Society can make people think differently or act differently

Sometimes people may be sad
Sometimes they can be mad

Some people like you because of your personality
Some people admire you

People can be special in many ways
People can be special to others or to themselves

The world may be harsh
Or the words people say
The world may be difficult
And seem hard in many ways

No one is the same
