

I have fallen

Falling deep down into the pit of oblivion

Gravity sings because resistance does not know him

My hands let go of the moon which holds the imprint of my hands

My head jerks up before it hits the ground

My heart comes out of my body as my being plummets down

My eyes scan for my heart as i know its lost in the clouds

I call out to her and I ask her to come find me

But i hear no response

As my body sinks into the depths of the grave

I wonder who will be there for my heart to take