

Learn To Love Again

By Yariheliz Soto-Figueroa

In the depths of love, a fragile heart did reside,
But alas, it shattered, leaving scars deep inside.
A symphony of emotions, a bittersweet refrain,
Heartbreak's melody, echoing through the pain.

Like a fragile flower, love bloomed so bright,
But the winds of change blew with all their might.
Tears fell like raindrops, a storm in the soul,
As the pieces of a broken heart took their toll.

Yet in the darkness, hope begins to rise,
Mending the wounds, wiping tears from weary eyes.
For from heartbreak's ashes, strength is born anew,
A chance to heal, to rediscover what is true.

For in the depths of heartbreak, we find our strength,
And learn to love again, at any length.

In The Realm Of Love

By Yariheliz Soto-Figueroa

Love, a feeling so grand,
Like walking on golden sand.
It warms the heart, makes it glow,
A beautiful emotion that continues to grow.

Love is gentle, a guiding light,
That shines through the darkest nights.
It brings joy, laughter, and bliss,
A magical connection that's hard to miss.

Love is a dance, a sweet melody,
Two souls entwined in perfect harmony.
It's a language that needs no words,
A symphony of emotions, like singing birds.

Love is a journey, an endless ride,
With ups and downs, by each other's side.
Through thick and thin, it remains strong,
A bond that can never go wrong.

Cherish love, hold it dear,
Let it fill your heart, banish fear.
For in the realm of love, we find,
A happiness that's truly one of a kind.